

Ministry of Steel Scholarships:

National Steel Policy announced by Government of India envisages production of steel of 80 MT by 2011-2012 and 180MT by 2019-2020. Hence the growth of the steel industry requires large number of Metallurgical Engineers and trained manpower. It is also envisaged to encourage the students at the entry level and to improve quality of students pursuing study of ferrous metallurgy. This issue was discussed in the meeting of Empowered Committee operating under the chairmanship of Secretary of Ministry of Steel and other leading educational and research institutes. Following this it is proposed to introduce 5 scholarships to undergraduate students of MME. Students selected for this scholarship are required to give undertaking.

Scholarship amount: Rs.4000/- per month per student

Duration: First year to Final year (4 years)

Criterion for selection: All India Rank in AIEEE

These scholarships are applicable for two batches, i.e. 2008-2012 batch and 2009-2013 batch.

Applications in a prescribed format are invited for the above scholarships on or before 31.10.2008
